Concord, N. H., Aug. 2 (By the Associated Press).—New Hampshire's primary election will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 21, and nominations will be for congressmen, governor, members of the governor's council and the state legislature. There will be no senatorial primary. Henry W. Keyes, junior United States senator from this state, will not again face the voters until 1924, while George H. Moses, the senior senator, is secure in his place until 1926.

Candidates for governor on the Republican side are Winsor H. Goodnow of Keene and Arthur C. Whittemore of Dover. The former ran second in a three-cornered contest in the primary of two years ago, losing to Albert O. Brown of Manchester, who was later elected. Mr. Whittemore has served in the governor's council and was a member of the old state railroad commission. John C. Hutchins of Stratford and H. Noone have declared as gubernatorial candidates on the Democratic side.

Congressman Sherman E. Burroughs of the first district has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election as he plans to resume the practice of law in Manchester. Robert Pillsbury, a fellow townsman, wishes to succeed Mr. Burroughs and has resigned his office of deputy secretary of state to devote all his time to his campaign. Mr. Pillsbury was formerly a newspaper man. He has a rival in Mayor Fernando R. Hartford of Portsmouth, who is publisher of the Portsmouth Herald.

Congressman Edward H. Wason, in the second district may be opposed in the final campaign by George H. Wither of Concord who will ask the Democrats of the district to nominate him.
